Robt. Jones' New Plan for Garbage

One would think with all the trouble the Carmel council has had to face because of the change in garbage collectors, that the mere mention of culinary refuse would make each and every member retreat excitedly into his shell.

But no. At the Wednesday night's council meeting, when Bobbie Jones (of Carmel, not Georgia) arose and forwarded his ideas for a new, more sanitary garbage dump, there was not so much as the bark of a suicide pistol, or a raucous "Throw him out!" In fact, council members leaned forward with an interested gleam in their calculating eyes.

It seems that Mr. Jones and several other peninsula property owners have their community eye on a piece of property one mile and a half this side of the present "rate infested" garbage dump. Upon this perfect site, he proposes building a modern refuse plant, where all matter that is ignitable would be burned, and what couldn't be burned, pulverized. This would do away with the pres-

Rachel Morton Guest Artist With Male Chorus Oct. 12

There will be a free concert at Forest Theatre Sunday, 3 P. M., when Rachel Morton of Carmel will appear as guest artist with the Monterey Peninsula Male Chorus, giving arias from operas.

Oct. 21, guest artist will be Marjorie Wurzmahn, well known pianist. This program will begin promptly at 8:30 in the lounge at Hotel Del Monte. Immediately after the concert an invitation is extended to members and guests to remain for an informal reception arranged by the board of directors of the club.

For the coming year the Musical Art Club will offer the members six concerts in addition to a Christmas party. Of unusual interest will be a string quartet, a brass choir, a dancer, a program

CHESS CLUB MOVES—

The Carmel Chess Club is going to move. The next meeting will be in Room 15 of the Sunset School on Thursday, Oct. 16 at 8 p. m. Visitors are welcome.

USO CLUB HOUSE HERE

The Carmel Post of the American Legion has generously offered the use of their hall between 7th and 8th on Dolores as a club house for the USO to entertain soldiers. The hall will be open to all enlisted men on Wednesday from 3 to 6 p. m.; on Saturday and Sunday from 3 to 10:30 p. m.

Citizens of Carmel are urged to cooperate with the USO in making these "open house" events attractive for the boys from Fort Ord. There is a phonograph, and there will be dancing if enough Carmel girls will attend. There will be games and refreshments. Local donations of cakes, cookies and candy will be welcomed.

Mrs. Avery Tompkins Wins French Cross-Word Puzzle Prize

The winner of Lady Kinnoull's Anglo-French cross-word puzzle has been discovered! She is Mrs. Avery Tompkins of Valley View and Sixteenth streets. If Mrs. Tompkins will just call at The Pine Cone office Mrs. Ada Winslow will reward her efforts with the five Pine Cone subscriptions that were designated as the first prize.

There will also be a second prize of two subscriptions awarded to Marie Jorden, Box 16. There were two runners-up—Miss Helen Freeman, and Miss Marjory Pegram. Watch next week's Pine Cone for the solution.

Nice Little Fires Locally

Members of the fire department have been busy little bees this week. First, over the week-end, there were two calls, both grass fires. The siren blew at 11 o'clock Sunday, announcing a fire located just back of the McPhillips' hotel, the blaze evidently starting from an incinerator.

The fire on Sunday afternoon was started by small boys who were playing with matches. It was on Fred Bechdolt's property.

Tuesday and Wednesday, the Sunset school children were brought up to the fire department for a close look into the fire and ambulance equipment. Later, they were taken upstairs and were shown how fire calls come in, and just what a fireman does when he receives a call. As a perfect end to an eventful day, the kiddies were all given a ride back to school on the fire truck.

Red Feather Campaign Starts This Monday

"The American people have given generously in the past to Community Chests," says President Roosevelt, "and I hope this year they will give more than ever before. That is because in a great world threat to our future, we must, for ourselves and our country, preserve and make secure our values and the strength of our institutions. It is true that more people are at work in our land today than ever before. It is true that our national income is rising. But it is still true that millions of our fellow citizens are still undernourished, ill clad and poorly housed. Bad health maims too many of our households.

"We must build up, not merely our army and navy, but we must build up the well-being of our civilian population."

In this spirit the Red Feather campaign commences on Monday and will last through Oct. 29. Robert Stanton, this year's Community Chest president, expects a generous response from citizens all over the peninsula.

Last year 2318 persons out of the total population of the peninsula contributed to the Chest, which means, roughly, one out of every three families. This year it is hoped the figure will be raised to at least one out of each family.

All employees of business firms are requested to give the equivalent of one day's salary (twice a year, if possible). One hundred per cent honor emblems will be given the firms of over five employees in which everyone has subscribed.

They Wanted Basses Now It's Violins

Walter Kelsey's symphony string orchestra started out in September with too many violins for the bass players available. They sent a note to The Pine Cone, which was published, and the bass players came. But it takes a lot of violins to balance several good bass players, and now the need is for violins. The musicians have grand rehearsals on Thursday evenings at the high school, and are planning a Christmas musical program just now. All string players are welcome. The orchestra is a part of the Carmel Adult School.

ROBERT STANTON'S HOLD "OPEN HOUSE" FOR CHEST WORKERS

Robert Stanton, president of the Community Chest, and Mrs. Stanton are having "open house" from 4 to 6 this afternoon for all directors and volunteer workers. If anyone connected with this drive has not been contacted, he is urged to come to the Stanton home, on Crespi Lane, Pebble Beach, for tea.

CARMEL PADRES PLAY IN MONTEREY THIS AFTERNOON

Undismayed by the fact that they lost their game against Watsonville (14-7), the Carmel Padres sally forth today to meet with the Salinas lightweights on the Monterey High School field.

The game will start at 3:15. Captain of the Padres will be Bill Huggins.

Katherine Dunham Dancers Put on Most Exciting Performance of Its Kind Ever Seen on Peninsula

Sunset Auditorium will lose its solemn austerity tonight. Under the throb and beat of primitive drums it will vibrate and glow, and the Carmel audience, caught in the wild spell of Savage Rythms, will enjoy an emotional experience never to be forgotten.

Katherine Dunham, "the Marian Anderson of Dance" and her company of 20 celebrated dancers will, under the auspices of the Denny-Watrous management, present the thrilling new dances of Cuba, Haiti and Martinique, as can only be interpreted by a colored people. Each dance is a perfect piece of

Council Tends to Business

This is the business covered at the Wednesday night council meeting:

A suggestion was made that Robert Leidig be made fire marshal. The matter was referred to Attorney Hudson on how to do it without violation of the by-laws.

The council granted permission to the sanitary board to remove an acacia tree on Dolores street.

Golden Bough Ruins Soon to Disappear

At the council meeting Wednesday night, Ross Cowan was granted two weeks more to clear up the ruins of Edward Kuster's dream-theater, the Golden Bough. In asking for a two-week extension of time, Cowan said that all of the uprights had been removed and it was only a matter of a short time before the entire ruins would be carried away.

Kuster, in southern California for a vacation, was not present. The requested extension was granted with full council approval.

HATS OFF TO SOLDIERS WHO HELPED PUT OUT FOREST FIRES

By MARTHA MILLIS

Devastated canyon walls with charred remnants of trees pointing their naked fingers at the sky, smouldering coals among the fallen trees along the road, heavy blinding smoke filling the air, crackling flames where spot fires were breaking out again, an echoing boom as a burned redwood fell—that is what greeted us as we drove up the Palo Colorado Canyon this week to take "cokes" in to the soldiers on the fire crew.

Miles of driving over treacherous roads where the trees had fallen, the underpinnings smouldering, bridges burned out, through land that looked worse than death where even the soil looked as though all its life was gone—that is what is left of the quiet green canyon I knew.

Yet along the road we passed

THREE MORE FIRES—

There were three other small fires during the week. One was a brush fire at Tenth and Torres, and evidently started from a faulty incinerator. Another brush fire occurred at San Antonio and Santa Lucia. At 6:30 o'clock on Wednesday the Chronicle folding room, located under the Carmel Garage, caught fire, old paper and trash making it particularly dangerous.

MRS. JOHN O'SHEA

The death of Mollie O'Shea will be a deep shock and sorrow to many. For the last 20 years—since her marriage to John O'Shea—she has been a point of color and esthetic delight to the community. Her parties were famous for the originality and the beauty of their entertainment. More personally, she was distinguished for her never-failing thoughtfulness toward friend and acquaintance, and the exquisite form of its expression.

But this was only one side of Mollie O'Shea. While she gave beauty to the happy, she was quick with compassion for the unhappy. This compassion was not sterile. It manifested itself in action in which she gave of herself. Many are the bed-sides, of both friends and strangers, that she has graced through dark nights.

THE DOGS DO BARK

BLITZ and BUFFY Montgomery were guests of honor at a delightful dinner party given by SALLY Stern and her mistress, Miss Ruth Stern, before the Sterns left for their Palo Alto home. The piece de resistance was a thick, tender, juicy steak which the honored guests enjoyed to the utmost.

After dinner SALLY showed the colored movies she had taken of BLITZ and BUFFY, who got such a thrill out of seeing themselves on the screen, and in color too, that they were all for starting out for Hollywood the next morning and taking SALLY with them as their press agent. However SALLY couldn't go because she had to get back to Palo Alto in time to put on her little red coat with the white "Block S" and root for the Stanford football team. SALLY is one of the Cardinal's staunchest supporters.

BILLY Harbolt, like the immortal "Annie", doesn't live there any more! He's moved, bag and baggage, from the Harbolts to Irene Alexander's. It was all his own idea, too. BILLY used to call on Irene Alexander about every day or so because he liked the way she talked and the way she called him "Jasper" instead of "Billy." Then one day the Harbolts adopted a little black puppy. They made a great fuss over the puppy and that hurt BILLY'S feelings. So he went over to Miss Alexander's for solace. He went more and more frequently until he was spending all his time there, just going home for his meals and trotting right back again. He just couldn't reconcile himself to that puppy who, he felt, had alienated the affections of his family. Then the other day he made the final move—he took his blanket over to Miss Alexander's, found just the place he wanted to put it, and settled himself down as a permanent fixture. But he still goes home to his meals—just to keep an eye on things.

Sunday was Bath Day at DUCHESS Welsh's house. The lovely DUCHESS started off the activities herself, with the assistance of her master, Jimmy Welsh, by dunking her stunning black and white Dalmatian coat in a sub-full of soap suds. She and the coat came out looking very clean and handsome.

Next was TUFFY the BRAT, feline member of the household, who has a great fondness for baths. TUFFY'S favorite indoor sport is jumping playfully into the bath tub whenever anyone is taking a bath. He amuses himself for hours by walking around the edge of the bath tub and sliding down the slanting end when the tub is empty. So TUFFY had a grand time blowing soap bubbles and cavorting around in the suds.

Then DUCHESS and TUFFY and Jimmy persuaded HAGGERTY, the Scotty who lives next door, to join in the fun and have a bath, too. HAGGERTY was a wee bit reluctant at first, but fi-

CARMEL COUNCIL TENDS TO BUSINESS

The tree was damaging sewer lines.

Two requests for signs were granted. One to Ernest Morehouse and one to the La Bonita Beauty Salon.

Peter Mawdsley, whose business is seldom understood by anyone, but highly respected by everyone, was granted an authorization to audit the tax collector's second installment account, completed last May.

Business pertaining to the Nott property (now being constructed by Contractor Carl Daniels) was held over until next meeting.

A pin-map prepared by Building Inspector Floyd Adams was presented to the council, revealing a few of the two-kitchen violations in Carmel. There were 33 multiple tenancies and 22 memorandum of violations. It was suggested that the city attorney act upon this information.

An investigation of delinquent business licenses revealed that there were only three at fault, and these were referred to the city attorney to report back with recommendation for action to be taken.

I Saw Veloz and Yolanda Dance

By MARY BURR

Maybe you think it isn't hard for someone who's had a good, stiff ballet foundation to write about the "world's best ballroom team," . . . well here goes . . .

Yolanda is an exquisite, dark-haired creature, who can flash a ten-grand smile, and wear clothes like Lady Astor's horse. She has a fine style, and if she wanted to be (no remarks from the ballroom lovers) . . . if she wanted to be a ballerina, she has all it takes to be one of the best. However, I DARE say that if this team knew a little more about the fundamentals of real dancing, they would be better suited for the concert stage.

On a ballroom floor they must be great, but in concert, they don't have quite enough tricks up their sleeves (and what ballroom dancers would have?) Because their chosen profession is sophisticated, it is also limited. It couldn't possibly be called a full-fledged performance, and I doubt if they could keep an audience interested that long. Half of the evening was devoted to the piano team, Harry and John Hynda (specializing in blue notes), and accordionist Jerry Shelton, who was hot as a forest fire.

Veloz and Yolanda's most popular numbers were, one, "Dark Town Strutters Ball", a really clever number, which "tickled me pink," as it did our capacity house, and their "Tango", which had to be repeated.

Although many Carmelites felt that these two expert ballroom dancers fully justified their reputation, I must confess in all honesty that I have seen better.

Major Zenas L. Potter, on Oct. 15, will address a meeting of superintendents of schools of this area on "The School and National Defense."

Carmel Forum Program Announced

Dr. James A. B. Scherer is to be the second speaker on the Carmel Forum program this year. He will come on Thursday, Oct. 23 with the subject "Inside Japan." The speaker's Japanese experiences began in 1892 when he taught young Japanese. He returned to the United States to become president of California Institute of Technology at Pasadena, and later director of the Southwest Museum at Los Angeles. In 1923 he again went to Japan, revisited the country twice thereafter before going there in 1932 to remain until 1936.

Known as the foremost authority on Japan in the west, Dr. Scherer is the author of ten books on Japanese and Far Eastern topics.

Following Dr. Scherer, Captain Dwight Long will give a lecture and present a color film, "Seven Seas on a Shoestring" on Nov. 10. Dr. Jean Pajus will discuss "Russian Realities" on Dec. 5. Miss Loretta will bring the story of "France Under the Nazis" on Jan.

13, and Herbert Knapp will make his third annual presentation of color film on Feb. 12, this time bringing pictures of Ecuador.

Carmel Forum programs are presented in Sunset Auditorium. They start at 8 o'clock, p. m., and admission is free.

NO POSTAL DELIVERY—

Newcomers get ready to wipe your eyes and blow your noses. Postmaster Bixler has some sad news to break to you. He's sorry, but due to the lack of sidewalks, house numbers and street lights, there will be no house-to-house postal delivery.

In fact, the only bit of cheerful news to come out of the Post Office this week is that postal receipts are 26 per cent ahead of last year's, which is hardly consoling to those who had hoped to hear the patter of little postman feet running up to their houses.

A Home-bargain Opportunity

This home presents an opportunity to some young couple. It gives much more than can ordinarily be had for the price.

Plenty of space around the house, in the 1/3 acre of grounds. Well-gardened, with fine trees, good shrubbery, and interesting chalk-rock walks and garden walls.

The house has sunny livingroom with fireplace, two bedrooms, bath, closets, roomy kitchen with breakfast-nook. In the grounds are small room, garage, sun deck. And the house is completely furnished.

For a quick sale, this price of $5,500.

Robert Jones Has New Plan for Garbage

ent unsanitary conditions which, Mr. Jones claims, are so bad at the old dump that "even the army is complaining." The rats, too, receiving a point from the condemning finger, when it was revealed that three cases of bubonic plague had been supposedly discovered in California, and well—the words rat and plague are synonymous.
For the most part, the council favored the idea, but there were a few rough spots which would have to be smoothed out first. The major problem seemed to be the necessity for segregating garbage materials. No longer could glad-some Carmel housewives drop a happy combination of potato peelings, melon rinds, catsup bottles, broken dishes, old shoes, empty tin cans, and an accidental spoon or two, into the bulging garbage can. Alas, there would have to be a painstaking separation of combustibles from non-combustibles.

The second problem is, would the collectors charge twice as much for two cans. Mr. Jones didn't know, for the local garbage man hadn't been questioned about the matter. Also Carmel's great transient population must be taken into consideration.

A week-end might, knowing nothing about divided garbage cans, place everything in one common receptacle. Now, who's going to undo the mistake? The renters? No indeed, they've left. The real estate people? What, and dirty their lily-white hands? The owners? Never! And certainly not the garbage man who might suggest that even a garbage man has some dignity.

And so goes the problem. Almost all the councilmen like the idea if it could be perfected. Mr. Rowntree, however, would still like to see it ground up and sent out as sewage. At the present, the council has decided to put the whole idea into the little cubby hole marked "for meditation, interrogation, and investigation."

Nancie Spencer Makes Vocal Debut

Nancie Spencer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Spencer, made her first local appearance as a solo recitalist last Sunday. She was presented to a distinctive audience by her vocal instructor, John Burr, at the Green Room in Carmel.

Miss Spencer is a young soprano of rather remarkable range and adequate qualities, both as to timbre and intonation. Her selections covered enough tried ground to fairly estimate her potentialities, and a candid evaluation would prove her a definite find—providing she has the stamina and determination to pursue her studies intelligently.

This candidate for future singing honors has many things in her favor, but there is as yet a quality which she sometimes lacks, which until it is thoroughly developed will seriously impede the progress of her career—this is a certain severity of manner which is uniformly received by her listeners. There must be more relaxation, greater sympathy for her medium expressed, and more gracious inclinations toward her audience manifested at all times.

Mr. Burr has left the imprint of his own excellent training upon the voice and interpretative ability of Miss Spencer. It was most happily demonstrated in the last group of songs and especially noticeable in the lilting impassioned air—"Les Filles de Cadix." Ellen Rosell assisted Miss Spencer at the piano in a highly efficient manner.

Dancing Studio to be Remodeled

The Alice Cutting dancing school in Monterey is being completely remodeled this week. When finished, there will be four small studios, and a large one for class work.

As soon as work is finished, Miss Cutting plans to start a training course for ballroom teachers providing the needed number (four or five) interested people apply. Men are especially wanted.

A great deal of training is offered through the Cutting studio. Walley Blair (remember him in

VACCINATIONS, IF YOU WISH

Dr. Dwight Bissell of the Monterey County Health Department, will be in Carmel on Oct. 16 to give the Schick test and smallpox vaccination to any youngster who wants them.

The Schick, which is given to test a person's immunity to diphtheria, should be given to those recently immunized or to those immunized several years ago to see if the test still brings negative results.

The smallpox vaccination should be given approximately every five years.

Infants and pre-school children are invited to take advantage of the shots which will be given at Sunset school from 1:00 to 2:30 o'clock and at the high school at 3 o'clock.

Forest Fires Controlled but Not Yet Out

A definite report on the forest fire situation has finally been received. It is—controlled, but not out! A suggestion has been made to sightseers to keep clear of the still burning area, as there is much danger of burning and falling timbers.

Rangers came from all over the state to commandeer the fire fighting, done so ably, willingly and efficiently by soldiers and officers. The first report of the fire came from an airplane pilot who reported it as being "south of Carmel."

So far 15 homes have been destroyed; five in Garapatas, nine in Palo Colorado, and one on the hill. Altogether there were 4500 acres burned in Bixby Creek, Palo Colorado, Garapatas and Wildcat.

The fire may be considered serious not so much because of actual property or timber losses (although much valuable tan oak and redwood was lost) but because of the destruction of the needed watershed. Also alkali from the ashes will wash into the streams of the burned country with the result that not a trout will be left alive by the end of the rainy season, nor will game return until the barren hill is re-covered.

The work that was done by the soldiers was reported as being far superior to any ever carried on before—even by the CCC, an organization which is trained for just such an emergency.

Other organizations which performed outstanding duties for fire fighters and evacuees, are the Red Cross, the Women's Motorized unit, Junior Red Cross, and State Patrol.

As soon as conditions permit, Hugh Comstock, Disaster Relief Committee surveyor, will examine the ravaged area to determine the extent of need derived from the disaster, and will report to the local chapter of the Red Cross.

the olio of "Bertha the Sewing Machine Girl"? will teach tap, tumbling, baton work and juggling.

Hildred M. Hodgson teaches modern piano, accordion, and also dramatics.

Alice Cutting presents the Arthur Murray ballroom dancing technique, ballet, acrobatics and reducing.

Any group desiring to form a class can do so at very reasonable rates, Miss Cutting revealed. The success of such groups can be seen in the 50-member class from Monterey high school, or the Army officers and nurses dancing club, formed recently.

JUNE DELIGHT'S PUPILS DELIGHT LEGIONNAIRES

Last night at the Memorial hall in Monterey, members of the Monterey Peninsula Post of the American Legion, were entertained by the dancing pupils of June Delight.

The meeting, conducted by Commander Hal Mosher, started at 8 o'clock with a short business meeting, during which plans for the Oct. 19 turkey shoot, to be held in East Monterey, were discussed.

NEW SCHEDULE FOR PHOTOGRAPHY CLASS

Members of Leota Tucker's night school photography class will, starting next week, meet on Tuesdays and Thursdays instead of Mondays, as has been the custom.

A new darkroom has been equipped, thus enabling more students to do a greater amount of work.

Potter Proposes Program for Air Craft Production

Speaking before the National Defense Section of the Commonwealth Club this noon, Zenas L. Potter of Carmel, aide in preparing production reports for President Wilson in the first World War, offered a 10-point program for aircraft production to make Hitler's defeat a certainty.

1. Establishment of a plane production schedule at least doubling Hitler's production in every category. (The goal of our present program is 2500 planes a month. Hitler's present monthly output is 3000 planes.)

2. Production of the best available all-purpose fighter plane at the rate of 500 a month, until we have a sufficient stock on hand to insure Hitler's defeat on all fronts.

3. Fulllest possible speed in development of the long-range bomber program, our one wholly intelligent aircraft production plan.

4. Reduction in the number of plane models, which number 49. To achieve this, and for better use of planes, establishment of a unified Air Command.

5. Production of at least 1000 planes between model changes. ((The German plan).

6. Merging of company owned models and individual plants into a unified plan for group production of standard models.

7. Widest possible use of automobile and other peace machine plants for parts production and sub-assemblies; with use of the aircraft plants mainly for engineering and final assembly.

8. Operation of all plants engaged directly or indirectly in aircraft production 24 hours a day, seven days a week, the government taking whatever steps are necessary to provide needed skilled labor and supervision. (Most aircraft plants are now operating two 10-hour shifts).

9. Energetic experimentation to produce better planes, but no delay in mass production of the best existing models, while experimentation is going on.

10. Prohibition of new model work on all peace machines until defense plants are fully equipped with all the tools they need.

"I realize that this is a drastic program," the speaker said, "but our production efforts and plans to date do not insure defeat of Hitler, who so far has hardly been delayed in his ruthless march of conquest. We are in this war. There is no policy left for us but to win it, whatever the cost."

Library Convention at Del Monte

The Harrison Memorial Library will not be closed to the public during the 46th annual convention of the California Library Association which meets at Hotel Del Monte, Oct. 15 to 18. The librarian and staff will attend as many meetings as possible, and are asking the borrowers to be patient as possible if the service is a bit slow. Any flowers or potted plants to help in the decoration of the library will be appreciated, and also any hospitality that can be extended the visitors. About 500 are expected to attend.

Highlights of the program include addresses by Dr. Arundell J. K. Esdaile, president of the Library Association of England; Albion Ross, foreign editor of the San Francisco Chronicle, and Gifford T. Douglas, member of the Berkeley Board of Trustees and Vice-president and manager of the Berkeley American Trust Company.

Special shows will be produced at California's First Theater on both Thursday and Friday nights of the convention week for the en-

PATIENCE—

The old hunter's theory of "sit and wait" seems to be working all right for the Carmel police.

Way back in February, 1941, a car belonging to Allen Smith of Carmelo and Ocean avenue, was stolen. After doing all they could, the law settled back for a watch-tainment of the visiting librarians, and various sight-seeing trips have been arranged for them. On Friday afternoon the visitors will be entertained informally at the Carmel Library by the Board of Trustees and Miss Niles, the librarian, of the Harrison Memorial Library.

ful wait that eventually brought a reward. Word was received over the week-end from the Oakland police, saying that the lost car had turned up in their city and would someone come and claim it. Ha! Victory!

Wondering about the 1942 cars?

Here is Buick's superb solution to the problems posed by making our national defense, as it should be, Industrial America's No. 1 job

BUICK BUILDS FOR DEFENSE

Our assignment: Building Pratt & Whitney valve-in-head aircraft engines for defense use.

IT WAS no time to duck or dodge the facts. So we didn't try.

Instead we said—these being the materials critical in the defense program, we'll do our planning for 1942 with that foremost in mind.

Not merely for an "acceptable" car—certainly not for any "ersatz" number.

We had to have a real and representative Buick. One we could be proud of. One able enough, active enough, durable enough to serve till annual new models are the rule again.

We resolved on a 1942 automobile of such merit as could carry the Buick reputation without fault until other new Buicks, however far off, could come along to refresh it.

Now we're announcing those 1942 cars.

Why waste words telling you how good they are! You can't put language in the gas tank and learn either how many or how enjoyable are the miles you'll get per gallon.

There's a better answer—you drive these cars themselves. Come on, do that! Put your own yardstick on their quality.

It would be a shame, for you and for us, to have you miss the dreadnaught Buick we've built to stand up successfully to the toughest job in years.

A BUSINESS THAT WAS DIFFERENT

By CARLOS DRAKE

More About Our Clients—

I have explained the great boom in the travel business in the 1920s and how we took advantage of it from various angles. Of course, we advertised extensively, luring people abroad. We told our clients: "Noah traveled because he had to; Moses rather unwillingly acted as courier for the first inclusive tour of the Near East; to Ulysses the longest way 'round was the shortest way home; Marco Polo thought it was all a lot of fun, while Columbus took it very seriously."

"Nowadays," we said, "there is no dispute about the value of travel—for pleasure, for relaxation, for knowledge." And added, "It is a far cry from the quarters on the Ark or the accommodations on the Santa Maria to the luxury of a modern express liner. It no longer takes forty years to get from Egypt to Palestine."

Our clients drank all this in. They fell for it, hook, line and sinker. But what appealed to them most was the Genii of the Lamp as our symbol, and our contention that we could do everything.

It complicated our business no end.

We had to nurse along many of our clients as though they were children. Every detail of their trips had to be handled for them, from the moment they landed at Cherbourg or Le Havre until they sailed home again. Cherbourg was a dismal place, where it was difficult to keep a responsible salaried representative. Our man in uniform there, Henri Etasse, was fortunately married to a girl whose parents lived in Cherbourg, so he was not tempted as were the representatives of other agencies to kill time between arrivals and departures of steamers in the bars and bordels of the town. He would meet our clients directly on board ship, clear their luggage through the customs, put them on the boat-train, secure their dining-car tickets, and telephone us the numbers of their car and compartment so that our porters at the Gare St. Lazare in Paris could locate them immediately and escort them to their hotels. There was always confusion when a big steamer came in or departed from Cherbourg, because, unlike other ports, there were no docking facilities; the boats lay to beyond the first breakwater and were met by tenders. Etasse was taking care of an old lady once who was on her way home to the States, and, when he got her on the tender with all her luggage, he noticed that she was boiling about something.

She was walking up and down, muttering, "It's an outrage!"

"What is?"

"This boat! I was promised by Mr. Drake it would be big and safe and comfortable, and it's just a horrid little boat, and I can't even find my cabin!"

"Listen, Madame," said Etasse. "You're not crossing the ocean on this tender. Out there's the ship you're going on! The Leviathan!"

Personal Jobs—

When clients failed to show up in the office the day after their arrival, I would send someone to see what we could do for them. I employed several intelligent, sympathetic women for this purpose. One of them was a young French countess, small, chic and very charming, who made up in part to elderly American husbands for the fact they had not left their wives and children at home.

Apropos of this I will mention something which surprised me a good deal until I became accustomed to it: there were quite a number of husbands among our wealthier clients from America who, strange to say, brought their mistresses along with them as well as their wives. Of course, they seldom reserved accommodations for both ladies in the same hotel; the wives, only in exceptional cases, were aware of the existence of the others. But every so often we were given the delicate job of keeping one lady or the other occupied while the husband spent an evening en famille or enjoying himself otherwise. The average American might consider this practice extremely immoral; so would the average French bourgeois. But I did not notice much difference in this respect between moneyed classes in France, England or America, except that the British were a little more careful about it, the French a little more skillful. Human nature is the same everywhere, and this was a particularly reckless era.

So far as we were concerned, it took all the powers of the genii of the lamp to maneuver a wife and maid, a mistress and her maid, with all their luggage, pet dogs, temperament, and one

SECOND HARVEST

*He brought her to this farm, his wistful bride
One year when Indian Summer lingered late;
But now he walked bewildered by cold fate
Which in death, came and thieved her from his side.
His fertile fields with fruit were multiplied
But this rich harvest could not compensate
For swiftly severed cords, nor yet abate
Stark loneliness that swept him in its tide.*

*Returning autumn captured field and lane;
He never dreamed that he might meet her there
By amber orchard or by stubbled grain
October sunlight warm against her hair . . .*

To mingle with the incense of his prayer.*

Vexes its stony face;
Always the melodious light will descend
Over this wavering wall,

The last bitter stone of all.*

TO A MOTHER IN REVERY

*The sunset glows upon the tall old pine,
And shadows interlace
With filtered colors from the lacey vine
And weave a garland for your classic face.
The thrushes are at vespers, and a breeze
Bears fragrance from the lilies in the stream,
And as you stand,
The pondering of some exalted dream
Has taken you beyond the hills and leas,
And absently you drop the kerchief from your hand*

*Your smile is glorified at closing day,
And only gold remains
In time's great furnace, letting fancies play:
Re-living life without the grief and pains.
You walk again through gardens of the years.
In paths of courage love and duty made.
You see the blossoming
Of buds unblemished, dewy with your tears,
And now engraved indelibly, and laid
Upon the shrine of home in humble offering.*

Homesickness—

We were able to offer valuable services in cases of illness and emergency, and often, too, were useful when a female client was suffering from loneliness or homesickness. Sometimes an employee of my office would be persuaded to keep a helpless client company day and night, for a short time, until some complication was straightened or she became oriented. I remember a beautiful girl whom a group of Chicago society women sent to Paris to study singing. She was about 20, extremely talented, but with the sophistication of a child of 12. My office was supposed to handle all business details for her; money was deposited with me to cover her expenses. She arrived one late afternoon, and when Mrs. Pasley, the woman whom I had sent to the station to meet her, brought her into the office, she immediately burst into tears and declared she was ready to give up her career and go home.

"But when you've been here awhile, you'll think Paris great!" I said, trying to comfort her.

"Oh, no! Oh, no!"

An absurd, old-fashioned straw hat was tilted over one eye, and her extraordinarily lovely face was red from weeping. She looked like the little girl from the country you read about arriving for the first time in the big, wicked city.

I said, "Maybe this will be good news for you," and handed her a cablegram which had been waiting for her in the office. She took it eagerly, read it, then flung it on my desk.

"Oh, my God!" she cried hysterically.

It was from a chap in Chicago who signed himself Tom and who was pleased to inform her that he was on his way to the hospital to have his appendix out, and wanted her to know that he would be sure to repeat her name just before he died.

"I'll take care of her tonight," said Mrs. Pasley.

Next day, thrilled over the fact that her boy friend had survived, she was placed in a proper pension, and arrangements were made for her singing lessons. Less than a month later she came in to see me with a Hungarian lad, who spoke no English and very bad French, and whom she insisted would be an ideal person to manage a concert tour for her in the United States. I explained, tactfully, that it might be a little difficult for him to get an American visa, and then asked, "Don't you think, anyway, that you ought to finish your studies here?"

"But poor Ferenc has to make some money to live," she said, "and I love him so much!"

It took a little time to straighten that situation out, but we did it; and a year or two later she did give some concerts in America which were very successful.

A Bored Lady—

Another client, whose personal life for a short period became our concern, was a bit more sophisticated. She was young, charming; she had a great deal of money, and as she told me one morning, plunking herself down in front of my desk, "I'm bored to death."

"I want to escape from myself," she said, "and I thought you might suggest an entertaining method. Your agency advertises it can rub the magic lamp. Well, if you're the genii, what will you do for me?"

"That depends," I said, "on what you'll do, and how much you'll pay."

"Plenty of both within reason," she answered. "But I warn you I'm hard to please."

I knew that her last remark was true. She was the type of young woman that had everything, in a material sense, had experienced most everything within the pattern of her social set. Twice married and divorced, she was not looking for another husband. She had many admirers, but they didn't stir her greatly. Her two children were well taken care of by an English governess. Her home in Paris was beautiful; she entertained in it a great deal, but her luncheons and cocktail parties and dinners were all more or less the same. She was pretty well fed up with the life at various resorts outside of Paris; sightseeing anywhere else would have depressed her. She hadn't the refuge of intellect or the stimulus of curiosity. People didn't interest her much. She was completely spoiled, utterly selfish, yet there was something appealing about the way she admitted it.

"I'll try to do something to relieve your boredom," I said, "if you'll consent to place yourself entirely at our disposal for one week without asking any questions," and I named a price in francs at approximately five thousand dollars.

She agreed without batting an eyelash, and I was given less than a week to prepare.

Here's what we did:

Stoliaroff had amongst our real estate listings a romantic old feudal chateau for sale in Southern France. It belonged to a titled French family that was anxious to get rid of it; but, though admirably located in the Rhone Valley, not far from Avignon, it was one of those elaborate run-down places, very expensive to repair and keep up. One of the owners was in Paris, and through him we managed to lease the chateau for a fortnight.

We engaged a chef, several cooks, waiters, maids, and bought a big stock of food and supplies; then, with a Russian princess, who would be hostess, we went down there, and fixed the place up temporarily for a house party.

Most of the guests were my bohemian friends in Montparnasse. I invited them, on salary, without saying anything to my client about them, gave each one a title, such as the great painter, the great author, the great poet, the great philosopher, a la Murger's "Scenes de la Vie de Boheme," instructed each one a role to play. There were 11 of them, supposed geniuses, with the ability to simulate gaiety, love and romance. Four of them were professional entertainers. One was a pale, wan young woman, whose sole function was to trail through the halls in a flowing grey dress, with a far-away look in her eye, so that when my client would ask, "Who is that?" the answer would be, "Nobody knows. She is a mystery."

On examining the chateau, I had noticed in the great dining hall four alcoves for statues, two on each side, and in these I arranged to have at the beginning of the first meal four waiters in full-plate armor.

The whole crew, servants and guests, were sent down by bus in advance, and with the hostess, a charming and versatile person, the week's program was outlined. Then, on the day appointed, I met my client at the office, and saw her off by car with chauffeur and courier on the first lap of her journey to glamorous Provence and the most unusual house party she had ever attended. She had no idea where she was going. The look of boredom was already beginning to leave her eyes.

Ida Newberry Is Here After Geo-dynamic Work at Hyampom

A lady who from now on will know her "bees-ness" is Mrs. Ida Newberry, recently returned from a seven months prolonged vacation spent in redwood-carpeted, blue sky-canopied, and stream-infested Trinity County.

Her stay was made on the experimental bio-dynamic farm owned by Mrs. Minerva Brooks, located at Hyampom, huddled deep in the Trinity hills. Here she developed and re-queened a four colony apiary, doing her work so well that the four colonies soon became ten, all occupied by strong, thoroughbred, healthy honey-makers of the three banded Italian type.

Life was not all honey and beeswax for Mrs. Newberry; a large part of her time was spent working among the gardens and various crops that are produced under proper bio-dynamic ideas, the most outstanding of which is soil conservation. All unused foliage is returned to the soil, and as no sprays are used in bio-dynamics, it is enriched without being contaminated.

The Hayfork branch of the Trinity river cut across the corner of the Brooks farm, and provided not only swimming facilities, but trout for breakfast and frogs' legs for dinner. Venison also made a regular appearance on the menu.

A small disaster took place almost upon Mrs. Newberry's arrival at Hyampom. Ruggles-of-Red Gap, the small Newberry bulldog, tangled with an Australian shepherd and as a result lost an eye. A 100-mile trip had to be made to get the dog to the veterinarian.

And so now Ruggles, sadder but wiser, has returned with his mistress just in time to enjoy that rarest of all things, Carmel sunshine. —D. O.

FIRE PREVENTION—

Sir:

Each year we have different "weeks" and this is Fire Prevention Week. This is one week which we must observe now and for the other 51 weeks of the year.

Last week we had an excellent example of the need of fire prevention when we had a forest fire just a few miles away. We have definite rules and regulations on fires. These rules are to protect property and lives, and to make Carmel safe.

Carmel has a fine record which is due to our excellent fire department and to good fire prevention work. I am asking each person to cooperate with Fire Chief Vincent Torres, and all of the members of the department, in making this another safe year.

ARTHUR C. HULL,
Fire Commissioner.

Sir:

What, if anything, can be done about Fortier's Drug Store? In New York if a shop out of harmony with Fifth Avenue opens, the Fifth Avenue Association takes care of it. Perhaps an Ocean Avenue and Dolores Street Association of merchants would be effective, if pledged to preserve Carmel's uniqueness and charm.

TICKLE WOULD NOT REDUCE STATE TAXES UNTIL DEBTS ARE PAID

Proposals for immediate tax reductions were considered recently in Sacramento, when members of the senate, assembly joint interim budget committee met to discuss state finances. Assemblyman C. Don Field of Glendale, mentioned his understanding that the state would have a surplus of some $50,000,000 by the end of the 1941-43 biennium, expressed the opinion that the legislature made a mistake in failing to vote tax reductions.

On the other hand, Senator Edward Tickle declared the action of the 1941 legislature on finance and taxation was "sound and constructive," and added, "when our state debts have been paid, then we shall study the tax situation."

Last week the Seventh Division left for San Francisco to go on exhibition before the general public. The event was preceded by an orgy of polishing of buttons and shining of shoes while shoes and buttons in the rest of the world became dirtier and dirtier. Some 1200 trucks took to the road with their loads of paraders and each consumed a gallon of gasoline every five miles of the hundred and twenty to Golden Gate, while the British still prayed for more tanker cargoes to keep their, Blenheims over the Reich. Most of the soldiers, however, had a great time as the good citizens of San Francisco had prepared a vast program of entertainment.

This week another group of 28-year-old men left the service to return to civilian life and that brings us to wonder what report these men will give on the U. S. Army. No doubt they will be questioned by parents, relatives and friends, no doubt they will have opinions to express that will be far more influential than the hordes of articles and radio speeches which we have suffered for so long. Their information will come straight from the horse's mouth, so to speak:

High in their minds will be the good friends they will have made and left behind, the comradeship that is created when men work closely together for a common goal. The days of discomfort and hardship that were passed cheerfully because they were all "in it together" and laughter still comes easy to the American; the raucous humor and the times Monterey or Salinas were "painted Red" with the first $21 pay checks. All these will live forever in the minds of those who experienced them.

But they will also remember that they were not easy times for the soldiers, that they put in their service when the nation's policies were subject to heated and often bitter debate and that it was hard to refrain from political partisanship which is taboo to a soldier, whether private or general.

How well I recall some of my own comrade's reactions to the strikes in Defense Industries at a time when we practiced mortar tactics with a stove-pipe . . . and those who said they might die for Britain but they were damned if they would shed an ounce of blood for the Soviet Union!

Yes, it has been a little confusing to be a soldier this last year, yet all in all I know and can assure you that the men who leave this week will have a far clearer conception of what is to be done than they had when they timidly entered the Medical Officer's office a year ago. We know that our fabulous resources, physical and mental, were taken a little too much for granted, that the United States may be a God-given Nation, yet it is up to the American to keep it. Like any other nation on this earth, we are just people, plain and ordinary. If we maintain our integrity and unity we will not perish, but if we are selfish and divided, we will with as little grace as the 3rd Republic of France, lapse into the twilight of decency and responsible liberty. The course our nation has chosen can not be followed with any half-way measures nor is there at this point any turning back. We must be equally wary of those who wish to shut this country off from the rest of the world as of those who with an optimistic gesture exclaim: "Bah! The U. S. has never lost a war!"

I know that those who are leaving Fort Ord will know what to do when the question of a strike or any obstructionism arises, for they will remember how they felt when they read the labor news in the papers after having completed a long day's march with pack and rifle. They will know that the quality of an army is in direct proportion to the quality of the civilian population and when asked about the U. S. Army will be able to say: "We are ready as long and as much as you are!"

And so we who stay behind bid "so-long" to our friends who are going back home. But we remind them that although their enlistment may have expired, their oath as a soldier has not.

HORRORS OF ARMY LIFE—

Sergeant Eldon Overman of the 17th Infantry, Fort Ord, this week received a bullet wound in his left hand. Police were told he had been target practicing with his wife.

NO MORE WEDNESDAY HALF-HOLIDAYS—

There was no "easy" athletic period Wednesday afternoon at Fort Ord. Major General Charles H. White ordered its cancellation, because, as he explained, it had become in effect a half-holiday.

Training of the Seventh Division has been slowed up unavoidably due to furloughs and discharges of men over 28, but now, with a stiff schedule drawn up by Training Officer Col. Frederick McCabe, everything is in full swing again.

Chest this year have been asked, "Why is more money needed when times are better and people more prosperous?" The seven agencies of the Chest on the peninsula are primarily character building organizations, not relief institutions. As the population has increased the demands upon these organizations has increased proportionately.

With the exception of the Red Cross, all charitable organizations on the peninsula are in the Community Chest. This year the Chest is conducting its own drive because of the national emergency which necessitates its maintaining a separate entity.

The Community Chest social service exchange is open all the year and has one salaried person—the Chest secretary. It is the clearing house for all Chest agencies, decides which persons should apply for aid, sees to it that such aid is not duplicated, and supervises the distribution of funds among the agencies.

It is the policy of the Chest this year to publish the names of all subscribers, except those who wish to send in their donations as "anonymous."

The local Community Chest headquarters are now open on Ocean avenue, next to the Carmel Wine Shop, three doors down from the old post office. Someone is there from 9 in the morning until 5 in the evening. Donations are being solicited, and all information can be obtained there, or by calling Kit Whitman, campaign manager, at Carmel 1222, Monterey

Streamlined French

LESSON II.

1. Grammar

The regular conjugations: French verbs are divided, according to their infinitive endings, er, ir, re, into three regular conjugations. Oir is classified as a fourth conjugation but is irregular.

First conjugation — aimer (to love) —

Present indicative:

J'aime (I love)

tu aimes

il (elle) aime

nous aimons

vous aimez

ils (elles) aiment

Second conjugation — finir (to finish) —

Present indicative:

je finis (I finish)

tu finis

il (elle) finit

nous finissons

vous finissez

ils (elles) finissent

Third conjugation: vendre (to sell)

je vends (I sell)

tu vends

il (elle) vend

nous vendons

vous vendez

ils (elles) vendent

Negation—

The negation not, or no with verbs, is ordinarily expressed by ne before the conjugated part of the verb and pas after it. Ne becomes n' before a vowel.

Je n'ai pas de frere (I have no brother)

Je ne suis pas une mere (I am not a mother)

Interrogation—

In questions the personal pronoun subject comes after the verb as in English:

Avez-vous un frere? (Have you a brother?)

Est-elle jolie (Is she pretty?)

2. Conversation

Comment vont vos parents? (How are your parents?)

Je n'ai plus mes parents (I no longer have my parents)

J'ai un frere et une soeur (I have a brother and a sister)

Ma soeur est jolie (My sister is pretty)

J'aime mon pere (I love my father)

Nous vendons des livres (We sell books)

3. Vocabulary

l'argent, m. (money)

le crayon (pencil)

l'encre, m. (ink)

la plume (pen)

le livre (book)

et (and) avec (with) ou (where)

la table (table)

voici (here is)

la lettre (letter)

la lecture (reading)

4. Composition

Now compose 10 sentences using the words, expressions, and rules of grammar contained in the two lessons.

Mail your sentences in for correction by our French professor from Paris. They should be sent to the director of the course, E. Paine, Carmel Pine Cone, Box 2146, Carmel, Calif.

Miss Thelma Searles of Pacific Grove was arrested Oct. 5 in Carmel, for reckless driving.

DO YOU THINK CARMEL IS A FRIENDLY TOWN?

A number of Fort Ord soldiers have been asked this question and the majority have answered, "definitely no!"

There has been no real effort on the part of our citizens to welcome enlisted men. The few exceptions in this case are outstanding because they are exceptions. A spirit exists, as it has for some time, of making Carmel an officers' club.

Now, with the Legion offering their hall three times a week for use of the USO, a change may occur in Carmel's general attitude. The Pine Cone hopes so. In proportion to their numbers there are undoubtedly as many interesting enlisted men as there are officers, men who are well educated, cultured and with attractive personalities. Young women of Carmel might well consider this. An officer's uniform does not necessarily create a delightful character.

"UNDER THE INFLUENCE"

Pleading guilty to a drunk driving charge was W. H. Albright of Carmel. The charges were filed against him in the Monterey justice court over the week-end. Albright was fined $200 as this was his second offense.

CUTTING KITCHEN COST is important these days. Food and its preparation are making every housewife budget conscious. That is why women this month are investigating how a modern Gas Range can bring four savings into the kitchen:

In the modern gas range, the burners save fuel at every cooking speed. These new burners keep the gas flame on the bottom of the pan—there's no waste heat spilling around the sides. The simmer adjustment on the burners makes possible waterless cooking that saves healthful vitamins to retain the garden-fresh flavor of vegetables. Giant top burners, speed ovens and broilers plus automatic lighting save kitchen time at every meal hour. The insulated oven of the new gas range permits the low-temperature cooking that reduces meat shrinkage and tenderizes the less expensive cuts of meat.

Buy a modern Gas Range now and save. Save while prices are still low. Save on every meal every day.

THE COMMUNITY CHEST

IS THE CARETAKER OF THE PEOPLE'S MONEY

It is the representative of the public in dealing with public work agencies.

The trustees—your watch dogs—do not allow your money to be mis-spent. It can only be spent locally and for the purpose designated.

It Supports These Agencies

Boy Scouts Girl Scouts

Teaches our youngsters to become good citizens. To be self-reliant. To perform good deeds. To be honest. Operates summer camp.

Milk Fund

Gives free milk to school children whose parents are financially unable to care for them properly.

Community Center

Has nursery school for children whose mothers are employed in lowest income bracket. Gives free hot meals to under-nourished children sent in by schools. Served 22,000 this year.

Catholic Charities

Non-sectarian emergency family relief. If the head of a family dies or is dishonest and goes to jail, or if mothers become suddenly ill, the agency steps in to save the family.

Salvation Army

Helps derelicts of society. Supports a home for unmarried mothers and a school for delinquent children. Does general social service work.

Canteen for Soldiers, Sailors

Provides men in the service with club rooms and game rooms. Gives them pleasant surroundings in which to spend their free time in town.

The Community Chest combines the efforts of seven organizations into one campaign—so you are asked to give only once, rather than seven times.

Contribute liberally through one pledge to this unified program of human service. Avoid seven separate collection campaigns.

The workers in the Community Chest drive are all volunteers. They give freely of their time and they are all of them financial contributors as well. Treat them with courtesy and kindness. They are your friends and neighbors.

Chest Drive Opens Monday, Oct. 13

Thea Winter to Wed E. Wolff—

A romantic, charming story—that of how Thea Winter met her famous husband-to-be, Pianist Ernst Victor Wolff. With a friend Thea went to China Beach for a picnic recently. Ernst was there with his sister, and through a casual conversation, Thea learned of Wolff's good friendship, in earlier days, with her father, Fritz Soot, great Wagnerian tenor of Berlin. Strange as it may seem, the two met here, years later on China Beach, as complete strangers, though Thea had often heard Wolff play, not having met him. All this culminating in plans for marriage, Thea leaves Saturday to join Ernst. They will wed at the beautiful ranch home of Donald Ogden Stewart and Ella Winter (Thea's sister-in-law) at Lake Placid, Sylvia, Thea's six-year-old daughter, will remain with her aunt and uncle at the ranch until the Wolffs establish their home in the heart of New York.

Sunday afternoon, Dr. and Mrs. R. A. Kocher entertained at their home in the Highlands to announce the exciting news.

Guests of the Kochers wishing happiness and luck to the bride-to-be were: Mr. and Mrs. Fritz Wurmann, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Gilbert, Dr. and Mrs. Walter Lehmann, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Nohring, Mr. and Mrs. James Hopper, Johan Hagemeyer, Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Welty, Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Kraig, Mr. and Mrs. B. Coghlan, Mrs. E. C. Dancing, games and music were followed by a beach picnic. Hostesses were Mrs. Helen Clark Cranston, Mrs. Charles Shephard, Mrs. Margaret Wood and Teddy Bailey. Helping out on the entertainment were: Rose and Meta Gossler, Frances Passalgaie Pat Tarrant, Shell Waters, Doris Westcott, Martha Stendar, Martha Rico, Eileen McEldowney and June Davis.

Y., honeymooners Mr. and Mrs. Lusius J. Knowles of Boston, Mass., Mr. and Mrs. Philip T. Patchin of Burlingame, Mr. and Mrs. Jerome B. White, the newlywedded Mr. and Mrs. David H. Sunset School Notes

SUNSET ENROLLMENT SHOWS SLIGHT DROP

At the end of the first school month the enrollment at Sunset School was 437. At the same time in 1940 the number was 442. The upper grade classes are smaller this year, the larger enrollment being in the first grade and the kindergarten. There are now two first grades and two kindergartens. Classes average 32.

The members of the Red Cross at Sunset School have collected quart-size ice cream cartons and are putting a red cross on each and a slit in the top. The cartons will be used for donation boxes.

Mrs. Uzzell's room faces on the court, and right beneath the windows our class is planting a garden. We have planted nasturtiums, candytuft, calendula and godetia seeds. We only hope this good weather will continue so our seeds will grow.

8 o'clock will be of interest to Audubon society members. Also on Sunday there will be a geology tour of Carmel Point, and on Oct. 19, a biological seashore trip that will start from the Grove museum.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Shriver and Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Van Riper on Tuesday petitioned the local sanitary board for annexation of their property to the district.

The final decision will be reached on Oct. 29.

In our room we have a citizenship chart. Last week we had 15 good citizens and there were 24 children who received bookmarks for being able to stay on the honor roll for four weeks. If we have 28 children on the roll next month, we may have an extra play time and then the boys and girls may play a game together.

THE DOGS DO BARK

nally was won over by their persuasiveness, and the fact that the bath was free, and took his turn in the tub. The three of them had a fine time romping around drying off. Then HAGGERTY trotted off home to get his dinner. But he got another bath instead! His family decided it was such a lovely day HAGGERTY should have a bath. And they couldn't understand his loud wails of protest as they put him in the tub for a good scrubbing.

Look what we found in the mail box, written in a fine masculine hand, modestly anonymous:

Poets have written for ages,
About everything under the sun—
But even with all of their subjects,
I like this particular one.

For in The Carmel Pine Cone,

There's a very engaging writer,
And her interesting subject is—

Cute and clever and charming,
What more could anyone ask—
So here's to the sweet little lady,
Who delights me so much with her task."

CHURCH OF THE WAYFARER

At the Church of the Wayfarer on Sunday morning Dr. James E. Crowther will preach on the theme, "Appraising American Youth." Margaret Sherman Lea as guest organist will play the following organ selections: "Inner Vision," Coerne; "Offertoire," Batista, and "Sonatina," Rogers.

The pastor, Dr. Crowther, has been invited to review for "The Christian Advocate," circulating among eight million members of the Methodist Church, the new book, "Biblical Plants for American Gardens," by Eleanor A. King. The Church of the Wayfarer has its own Biblical Garden, and inquiries concerning it have come from every state in the Union. In this little garden the visitor may see the offspring of plants that flourished in Bible times, even the bullrushes that sheltered the infant Moses in the Nile.

Mrs. John O'Shea Dies After Illness In San Francisco

"One of the loveliest women I ever knew," is the expression heard on every hand about Mrs. John O'Shea, whose death occurred Tuesday night, bringing sorrow to many in Carmel and elsewhere. She died after a three months' illness in St. Luke's Hospital in San Francisco, and services were held in Gray's Funeral Home in that city.

She was the wife of John O'Shea, well known California landscape artist, whose home for many years was in Carmel Highlands. Mrs. O'Shea was herself a leader in peninsula art circles known for her understanding help to others through times of illness and stress, her unflinching kindness to the less fortunate. She is survived by her husband, and a sister, Mrs. Benjamin Pine.

Many of these dances carry authentic native interpolations, for Miss Dunham penetrated the jungles of Haiti, the hidden sugar plantations of Cuba, and the remote hill villages of Martinique to discover the genuine movements and musical accompaniments that are used by the peoples of those islands.

CARMEL FIRE REGULATIONS

Quite a few people in Carmel are unfamiliar with conditions governing bonfires and small fires on private property. These are city regulations and violators are punishable by law.

A fire permit must first be secured. This may be secured at the fire house at any time during the day. The person getting the permit agrees to comply with the following conditions:

Before burning, clear at least six feet away from fence and building, and have wet sacks or garden hose handy.

To keep fire small and never burn when a high wind is blowing. Put out fire with water before leaving and take all precautions which are necessary.

of a minor amateur investigation, for Miss Dunham, a graduate of the University of Chicago, was able to search for her material through a fellowship awarded her by the Rosenwald and Rockefeller foundations.

Her company took New York by storm, packing the houses 12 consecutive nights, leaving the crowds raving for more.

Their most popular numbers are "Rhumba Suite", "Primitive Rhythms", "Shore Excursion", "Rites de Passage", "Br'er Rabbit", "Le Jazz Hot", and "Boogie Woogie". After leaving here the troupe will be at the Curran Theater in San Francisco for two days.

Hats Off to Soldiers Who Fought Forest Fires

cabin after cabin where the fire had burned down within a few feet on all four sides. Each one of those cabins had been saved by the combined efforts of a group of soldiers. They backfired, shoveled brush, built fire breaks, used hoses when they could get them, and even stamped the coals with their shoes. Many of the soldiers have burned the soles of their shoes through since they have been stationed down the coast.

These were just some of the grim scenes that we of the USO caravan saw in our four days last week-end into Palo Colorado and Garapatas canyons, taking refreshments to the fire crews. We dispensed cigarettes and 70 cases of coca cola.

None of these men had the idea that they were doing anything heroic, and yet some were caught when burning trees fell; some were trapped when flames encircled them in the floor of the canyon and escaped only by running up the steep side which had burned first and where the flames had died down. I saw men come off the fire lines with eyes blinded by smoke, faces blackened and burned, eyebrows and hair singed.

I saw men on duty who had worked without food or rest for 12, 14, 16 hours or longer. These men six months or so ago were clerks, fishermen, miners, college students.

They have come from every walk of life, from cities, towns and country. In the past week they have proven their mettle; they have worked to the point of exhaustion under dangerous conditions with a spirit that is fine. Hats off to these men!
